

CRITICAL - An exhibition by Dave White

Presented by Loughran Gallery

'Lion' - oil on linen, 102cm x 102cm 40" x 40" by Dave White 2015

Loughran Gallery presents 'CRITICAL' a solo exhibition by British artist Dave White.

Exploring the theme of critically endangered species, This new series logically follows on from the sell out Natural Selection exhibition, focussing on wildlife whose existence is becoming increasingly perilous in the natural world. White continues his unique homage to his subject matter, executed in his trademark expressive style. Instantly recognisable, White's work presents opulent oil paintings with a stark sense of life, fragility, movement and emotional integrity.

The series of portraits and movement works, engages the viewer to question our environment and our impact on life's precarious equilibrium in the natural world, which is in danger of falling beyond our reach. The works depict beauty and grace, where the powerful and fragile are juxtaposed challenging the viewer. The exhibition will feature oils, watercolours and unique limited editions.

Dave White

Over the past ten years, internationally acclaimed artist Dave White has exhibited in Los Angeles (GUSFORD), Dallas (Goss-Michael Foundation with MTV RE:DEFINE), New York (NEW MUSEUM), Miami (Art Basel Week) and Copenhagen. His work and global notoriety are supported by collaborations with blue chip brands and his artwork can be found in notable private and corporate collections. White has been working with Loughran Gallery since it's inception and has enjoyed large scale successful exhibitions and unique collaborative projects such as the recent customisation of a collectors Series I E-Type Jaguar.
